BOTTOM LINE

We have a safety system in place and feel comfortable operating in these trying times. Nevertheless, that does not eliminate the risk. Please understand that if you travel to Argentina and contract COVID-19, you could be responsible for a great personal expense, whether it is a quarantine or a medical expense.

In this context, we strongly encourage our clients to purchase medical insurance with comprehensive cover for coronavirus, including hospitalization and the costs of self-isolation if required. Customers are solely responsible for purchasing medical, travel, or trip insurance.

Let us know if you have any questions. We look forward to another successful season!
