LOCATION

The province of Córdoba is located in Central Argentina, while La Dormida lodge rests 80 miles (130 km) north of the Córdoba City International Airport. Driving time from the airport is about 1:35 hours.

Known as the “Heartland of Argentina“, the province of Córdoba boasts of its abundant natural resources and breathtaking landscapes. It is considered one of the most prosperous provinces in the country due to its thriving agricultural industry, especially in the production of soybeans and wheat. The province’s mild climate and optimal breeding conditions have also resulted in a significant population of doves, making Córdoba a world-renowned destination for dove-hunting enthusiasts.

GETTING THERE

To get to La Dormida Lodge there are daily direct flights from many U.S. cities to Santiago, Chile with connecting flights to Córdoba city. That will allow you to make the most of your trip as you will be dove shooting the day of your arrival (depending on the different flight schedules). Hunters may also fly into Buenos Aires (Ezeiza Intl. Airport), transfer to the domestic airport and take a 1 hr flight to Córdoba.

Once at the lodge, you are conveniently close to terrific dove fields with drives averaging 45 minutes daily depending on the time of the year.

FACILITIES AND SERVICES

La Dormida Lodge offers an upscale, contemporary ambiance which is most unexpected in the ruggedly beautiful rolling hillsides of the Córdoba countryside. Surrounded by handcrafted stone walls, the compound has the feel of an elegant “fortress” of sorts, containing everything the traveling hunter, or non-hunting guest, could possibly ask for on a wing-shooting holiday.

THE HUNTING

At La Dormida Lodge the focus of the program is the perfect synergy between the personalized, small group focused, lodge experience with traditional dove shooting. With millions of doves residing within a 150-mile radius of the lodge, we can easily access a wide range of shooting fields, with scenic drives through the area's countryside.

Hunters can experience a wide variety of shooting scenarios throughout the year. The gorgeous, brushy hillside roosting and feeding areas offer great variety, as you can take positions down in valleys, from aside riverbeds, and on the peaks and points of the hills. During the fall harvest seasons, hunters might find themselves shooting along agricultural fields of sorghum, corn, and sunflowers. While each location offers its own special scenarios and shooting opportunities, all offer incredible numbers of fast-flying doves.

In the field each hunter will be joined by a field assistant, who will prepare your shooting blind, provide shells and refreshments and oversee your experience. Unlike some other outfitters, David Denies Bird Hunting field assistants are full-time professionals, with years of guiding and shooting experience. There are no young “bird boys” in the field, all of our staff are extremely knowledgeable when it comes to high volume dove shooting, and their expertise will bring your experience to the next level.

One of the most common questions we are asked, in regard to the shooting is “What Happens to the Birds?”. Each day our lodges donate hundreds of pounds of processed dove meat to Mission Esperanza Foundation. We feed 800 children per day and have already built 3 community centers with our donations and those of our guests.

DAILY ITINERARY

Each morning, guests will be woken up about an hour before departure time. A delicious breakfast will be served, offering a variety of made-to-order options such as waffles and Eggs Benedict.

After breakfast, hunters will leave the lodge around 8:30 - 9:00 am. The driving time to the fields can vary significantly depending on the location of the doves and other environmental factors, but it usually ranges from 20 to 90 minutes approx., with a daily average of 45 minutes. Upon arrival at the field, hunters will be greeted by a field assistant who will guide them to their shooting positions. The head guide will also be available to provide assistance or tips if desired.

The morning shoot will take place until noon, followed by a fantastic Asado lunch served in a comfortable tent or hand-made shelter, where you will enjoy Argentina's wonderful beef and superb wines. After lunch and a short siesta, the afternoon session begins at around 2 - 2:30. The shooting will continue until approx. 5:00 pm, but there is no strict quitting time; it depends on the shooters' fatigue and discretion.

After the shooting day has come to an end, you will return to the lodge, where you will be met with cocktails & appetizers, followed by a delicious dinner and time to relax.

You'll be treated to an incredible Asado-style field lunch, served in the shade of a comfortable safari tent, showcasing Argentina's famous beef and superb wines.
